

Crafting a creative and heartfelt home purchase offer letter can significantly impact a seller's decision. This guide provides a template for writing such a letter, an example based on the template, and a variation to help you make a compelling and personal connection with the home seller.

Purpose of a Home Purchase Offer Letter

A home purchase offer letter aims to:

Personalize your offer to buy a home, setting it apart from others.

Connect emotionally with the seller by sharing personal stories or reasons for wanting the home.

Increase the likelihood of your offer being accepted in a competitive market.

Key Elements of a Home Purchase Offer Letter

Introduction: Briefly introduce yourself and your intention to purchase the home.

Personal Connection: Share why the home is perfect for you and your family.

Compliments to the Seller: Comment positively on aspects of the home you love.

Offer Details: State your offer and any other relevant details like contingencies or closing timeline.

Emotional Appeal: Make an emotional appeal to the seller to consider your offer.

Closing: End with a heartfelt closing and express your hope for a positive response.

Dear John and Linda,

We recently visited your home at 123 Maple Street, and we instantly fell in love with it. We are writing to express our heartfelt interest in purchasing your beautiful home.

The warm, welcoming feeling we got when we entered the living room, and the stunning view from the backyard, truly spoke to us. We were especially impressed by the well-maintained garden and the cozy fireplace in the den. We can envision our family enjoying weekends and holidays in this lovely space.

Your home is exactly what we have been searching for, offering the perfect environment for our growing family. We are excited to offer $350,000, with a flexible closing date to accommodate your schedule.

We can see the care and dedication you have put into your home, and we would be thrilled to be its next owners. We hope to continue filling it with love and cherished moments, just as you have.

Thank you for considering our offer. We are eager at the prospect of making 123 Maple Street our new family home.

Best wishes,

Sarah and Michael Thompson
