

Apology Letter to Wife Trust

My Dear Rekha,

This is the first time I am writing to you, and unfortunately we are not in a very nice mode. My statements towards you last night may have made you think that I am not the person you always thought I am, but trust me it was an accidental moment that is so regretful. I never had the harsh feelings for you and never ever think to misbehave with you in that nature.

I know there are certain things which cannot be changed in life and my last night's behaviour was one of those.

I sincerely apologise for what I did and deep in my heart I believe I will be able to regain your trust and you will be kind enough to forgive me.

I still have faith on my love dear.

Yours,

Deep

